February 1/88

The Concordia Women's basketball team played their best game to date this week. The Stingers, who led 26-15 at half-time, fell to Bishop's 54-51. The Stingers executed well in the first half but like every league game this season, could not put two halves together. The Stingers led by 9 with 4 minutes to go and also were leading 51-50 with only 59 seconds left.

The Stingers were led by All-Canadian candidate Carol Assalian (Montreal, P.Q.) who had 14 points. Carole McIntyre (Pierrefonds, Que.) chipped in with 10 points and 6 rebounds. McIntyre fouled out with 5 minutes to go and this was the turning point in the game. Sharron St. Croix continued her solid play by contributing 10 points. The Rookie Montreal native has averaged 10 points a game this season.

The Stingers fell to McGill earlier in the week. 76-52. The Martletts opened up a 15-0 lead and never looked back. STINGERS IN TOUGH-WITH DEPLETED DEFENSIVE CORPS

RECAP

Concordia took to the ice this weekend with a depleted defence and things went from bad to worse as the Stingers fell twice to Central Division teams.

In Saturday's 6-5 loss to Wilfrid Laurier, the Stingers nearly came back from a second period 5-1 deficit. However, a power play goal by Laurier at 15:37 of the 3rd period provided the winning margin. Paul Brophy (13th), Tod Button (6th), Martin Foy (4th), Frank Sinfield (12th) and Richard Laplante (33rd) had the Stinger goals.

The Stingers were without outstanding defenceman Marc Lalonde (suspension). Dave Kasper and Andre Lefebvre were injured during the game. Lefebvre broke a bone in his upper arm and will be lost for the season. Going into the weekend, the Stingers had 4 players who were forwards at the start of the year, playing defence.

Saturday's 6-3 loss to 7th ranked Waterloo saw the special teams play a large role. Concordia scored 2 short-handed goals and Waterloo tallied 2 powerplay and one short-handed goal. The Stingers went into the game with one natural defenceman, Martin Foy. Andre Chartrain, formerly of the Fredericton Express, scored his 11th goal of the season. Dave Kasper (2nd) and Todd Adams 8th were the other Stinger marksmen.

ROCKIN RICHARD

Richard Laplante (Boucherville, P.Q.) had his 25th goal of the regular season on Saturday. Laplante, who played for Longueuil in the Memorial Cup last year, now has 25 goals and 18 assists in 18 league games. He needs three goals to tie Doug Feasby's team record of 28 goals.
